General terms of business:

Through subscription, the signatory declares himself/herself in agreement with himself/herself and the world at large.¹ The performance of busy dynamic fonds[®] and the FCH current share price corresponds to the present state of the busy bank building on the Schmittten.² In case this remains intact until the cutoff date 19 April 2009, 12:00 pm Central European Time, the Schmittten AG will pay a yield of 100%.³ In case of previous bankruptcy (utter collapse) the yield will be calculated proportionately on this cutoff date.⁴ The subscribing person, of course, has the right to relinquish all rights to the invested capital and surrender it to the social foundation of the busy bank.⁵ Legal recourse is ruled out; the situation is, however, not utterly hopeless.

¹ Thus, also under the conditions of busy bank.

² Frosty, gray weather raises the leverage of profit, beautiful weather, on the other hand, raises the joys of skiing. The melting temperature of the building is determined by the percentage of the yield.

³ Social Foundation clause a)

The yields will be paid out during the winter season 2010 in the form of ski tickets to needy children from the Pinzgau region.

⁴ Social Foundation clause b)

Thus, no one can lose at busy bank. Cool, don't you think? 100% yields are calculated for the 87 day maturity of the fund.

⁵ Social Foundation clause c)

In case this fairy-tale scenario should actually come to pass, the capital investment and yield will be paid out together in the form of ski tickets to needy children, perhaps even a few from the Pongau region will be added.

Yes, I have read the terms of business, understood all their pernicious and perfidious traps and accept them nonetheless.

Yes, I hereby exercise my right to forego my capital at busy bank.
